Senior Wellness Fair offers medical screenings and assessments

In a world of rising medical costs, Botsford Commons Senior Community's Senior Wellness Fair features a wide variety of free medical consultations and screenings. The event is from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 20 at the campus Town Commons.

"Prevention is key for many medical conditions, particularly with senior citizens," noted Diane Zide, senior director of Senior Living Services for the Botsford Commons. "We hope our community members will take advantage of this opportunity to receive important information about their health and future medical decisions."

Medical professionals will provide memory, depression and podiatry screenings and education as well as balance assessments. A pharmacist will also be on hand to review medical regimens, so please bring your medication bottles and/or a list of medications for review.

The event is free and located at the Town Commons at Botsford Commons Senior Community, located at 21450 Archwood Circle in Farmington Hills. For information, please contact Cheryl Dzikowski at (248) 426-6903.
